

WHICH AMERICAN SAINT ARE YOU?

St. Isaac Jogues

You are St. Isaac Jogues. You find inspiration in reading that fosters your sense of adventure. Setbacks don't stop you from persevering and achieving your life goals. You work well with a group of like-minded friends and desire to spread good in the world.

Fun Fact: This saint had two fingers chopped off while he was captured. He later returned to minister in the same region.

St. John Neumann

You are St. John Neumann. You are a humble leader. While you may not be the most popular kid in class, you don't worry about it as you value your close friends. The city life is the life for you, and your life's work may involve teaching.

Fun fact: This saint spoke six languages, and in eight years, opened more than 100 schools in Philadelphia.

St. Mother Théodore Guérin

You are St. Mother Théodore Guérin. No matter how long it takes, you reach your destination. You are a hard-working leader with determination to help forge your way. When trouble comes, you persevere with a steady spirit and trust in God.

Fun fact: In 1840, this saint traveled from France to Indiana by ship, train, steamboat, canal boat, and horse-drawn carriage. It took her about two months.

St. Damien of Molokai

You are St. Damien of Molokai. You care deeply for the poor and the sick, and are unafraid to serve to make life better for others. While you prefer a tropical setting, you know that serving others has no boundaries.

Fun fact: This saint served a community of lepers on an island in Hawaii, where he started a choir and a band.

St. Kateri Tekakwitha

You are St. Kateri Tekakwitha. You are stubborn and brave with modest confidence and a resilient spirit that carries you through tough situations. You prefer small groups or being alone and have a deep love for nature and helping others. Your life's work may be an artistic endeavor.

Fun fact: This saint contracted smallpox when she was four, leaving her face scarred. When she died at age 24, the scars disappeared from her face.

St. Katharine Drexel

You are St. Katharine Drexel. You are a generous and giving person who quietly seeks to serve others, and you are always ready to lend a helping hand. You are a thinker, preferring quiet to the noise of busy city streets. Your passion for helping others may lead to a career in education.

Fun fact: This saint inherited a $14 million estate when her parents passed away. She gave it all away to her father's favorite charities.

St. Frances Xavier Cabrini

You are St. Frances Xavier Cabrini. You are always on the move. Your energetic spirit loves adventure and travel—and you always make sure to help others along the way. Like the saint, your life's work may be in healthcare.

Fun fact: In the late 1800s, this saint traveled to New York, Chicago, Nicaragua, New Orleans, Italy, Argentina, Panama, and Peru, by boat, train, mule, and on foot.

St. Elizabeth Ann Seton

You are St. Elizabeth Ann Seton. You are charming and cultured, a lover of music, movies, and nature. A big city like New York draws you in and you could spend hours exploring. You may feel called to a life of service through teaching or healthcare.

Fun fact: This saint was the first person born in the United States to be declared a saint. She grew up in New York high society, married, and had five children.